It's not who you are. It's what you do.

ABOUT THE BLOG

What began as a joint-venture between mom and stepmom has grown into the go-to resource for overwhelmed stepmoms seeking comfort and guidance navigating blended family life. We help women rediscover their identities outside of stepparenting and reinforce that they're more than "just a stepmom" by regularly posting a variety of women's lifestyle content in addition to stepparenting support.

ABOUT THE BLOGGER

Kristen Skiles is a proud wife and stepmom, currently located near Dallas, Texas! Kristen grew up as a stepchild with a very involved stepdad and one long-distance dad and a few different stepmoms over the years. Couple that with the fact she was business partners and roommates with her stepdaughter's mom for a season, and it's safe to say, she offers a unique perspective! Her readers often tell her she's relatable and help them to see the stepmom role in a new light after rediscovering their unique identities.
